Productivity Training to Get Your Most Important Work Done

Team Training | Workshops | Retreats | Keynotes

Barbara Bergeron, SOS President, uses her two decades of corporate training experience to power executives and re-energize organizations as they rise to a higher level of performance. A nationally-recognized productivity expert, Barbara catapults organizations to the highest level of productivity success.

American workers are becoming less productive. Why?

While the advent of technology makes our lives more efficient, the actual productivity of workers is declining. There are three primary reasons why even the most productive employees fail to complete their most important work: a lack of focus, a lack of motivation, and a lack of agility.

SOS Organizational Services guides companies to reverse this trend and offers personalized coaching and specialized training programs for executives, sales associates and emerging leaders. All our programs ensure employees obtain the needed tools to raise their productivity to the next level.

"...helped us devise a comprehensive productivity strategy ... we very conservatively estimate a minimum of a $1M in productivity gains for our employees."

~ David Dart, ConAgra Foods

Personal Productivity Coaching

Human capacity for power relies on two key ingredients: information and knowledge. Employees learn how to cultivate these two elements with the highest levels of brainpower, agility and speed.

Productivity Training

Peak performers learn how to reduce stress and overcome roadblocks found in the workplace using proven performance strategies—and are empowered to carve out the extra hour.

Speaking

Barbara motivates groups of all sizes with her interactive and positive style. She shares actionable techniques and best practices; participants take positive action as soon as they leave the room.
